NOTICE

It has come to the notice of the University that few colleges have taken admission of students without valid allotment letters issued vide CET-I examination by the University for this academic session 2020-21. Due to such reported act of those colleges, there is clutter / interference in the admission process by means of which either students with valid allotment cards are being denied admission by college(s) or students issued (valid) allotment cards by the University have already taken admissions in some other colleges in which they have not been allotted by the University vide CET-I.

It has further come to the notice that few colleges are also admitting students breaking the entry level qualification rules beside without having valid allotment cards / letters.

In view of the above, it is notified for all the colleges that no student will be registered by the University without valid allotment card (issued vide CET examinations for the session 2020-21) once the admission process is over. Hence all college authorities are requested to strictly adhere to the admission policy of the University by means of which admission to all non-AICTE courses are only allowed against valid allotment letters / cards obtained through CET examinations conducted by the University. No other means of admission without the expressed permission of the University will be allowed to any college and if disobeyed registration to such students will be denied.

In this context, all concerned are requested to ensure avoiding such violation of rules, failing which action as mentioned above will be taken by the University.
